The unusual closing used in the coat of the suit above is attractive, as is the broad-shoulder effect of the revers and collar, which make a becoming model for slender figures. This collar is made of silk, and on it, marking the line of each shoulder, is a band of silk embroidery, a band of the same finishing the bottom of the coat and trimming the sleeves. There is a vest effect of black velvet, the same appearing as cuffs, and the narrow bands on the skirt. The latter is plain save for this band and a broader one of the embroidery.
